4th Annual

Emerging Paradigms in Liver Cancer Diagnosis and Treatment

We are happy to host the 4th Annual Emerging Paradigms in Liver Cancer Diagnosis and Treatment this year at the Royal Park Hotel in Rochester and virtually.

The full-day conference will focus on the full spectrum of primary liver cancers, from early detection, diagnosis, to novel cutting-edge treatments. The program will feature University of Michigan faculty members and external speakers, with ample opportunities for discussion and interactions.

Objectives
At the end of this activity, medical professionals will be able to:
- Identify patients who are appropriate candidates for liver cancer surveillance.
- Select and utilize effective surveillance methods to enhance early detection of hepatocellular carcinoma.
- Apply appropriate risk stratification and treatment strategies for hepatocellular carcinoma and cholangiocarcinoma, as well as understanding the current clinical trial pipeline for liver cancer therapies.
- Explain emerging treatment options for liver cancer and understand how these therapies are sequenced in clinical practice.

This activity is appropriate for: Medical Students, Nurse Practitioners, Nurses, Other Healthcare Professionals, Physician Assistants, Physicians

In the fields of: Gastroenterology, Hematology/Oncology, Hepatology, Medical Oncology, Other Healthcare Professions, Pathology, Radiation Oncology, Surgery, Transplant Surgery
